PRESIDENT HOOVER WILL FORCE CRIME PROBE

'ROUND 'N' 'ROUND

Humor is a wonderful thing—but too much of it isn't so good.

There is one type of humorist who delights in throwing firecrackers at passing cars just to hear the drivers cuss as they imagine their tires have blown out.

And then there is the other brand of humorist (mentality—nothing minus), who lets air out of car tires.

Ever noticed it, or have you the amount of wise cracks that are passed by married men to those who are about to be married.

From all appearance it looks like another "whispering campaign" to persuade that would-be benedict that marriage is the bunk.

But at the same time, some of these would-be cynical husbands would be lost if they were single again.

There's a standing bet of three to one odds that some of these husbands who wait about married life wouldn't be single a year if they were divorced or left a widower.

And there's few takers of this bet, either.

Which all goes to show something or other.

This idea of moving the parking signs on Macdonald avenue is a fine one.

When one has tried to park one's car on Macdonald avenue during a rush period, and when one sees those beautiful open spaces between the parking signs and the street corner, one is tempted — to say the least.

And at times one falls into temptation — and a cop falls upon one's neck.

Speaking of this "one" habit — at times it grows worse than A. Hamilton Gibbs or his big brother, Sir Philip.

If you haven't anything else to do this week-end, read "Wild Orchards" by someone or other. It's a story of California and those who work in the orchards.

It's quite Hemmingway in spots, — vivid, clear, concise and above all, told in simple terms that even a printer could understand.

The height of something or other was seen on Macdonald avenue yesterday when a certain "speed" cop drove down the "main drag" on his motorcycle at a slow rate of speed, putting chalk marks on automobile tires.

Said chalkmarks — if the car hasn't been moved in the meantime, or the marks rubbed out (which is the best way and you won't have to move the car) would result an hour later in a pink tag for parking over the time limit.

Next day we'll probably see the same cop drive down the street with a valet or an utility man who will mark the cars and thus relieve the cop of this tiresome labor.

Oh, hum, life must be a tough proposition for some people.

OLD FRIEND OF WIDOW JAILED

REDWOOD CITY, June 27.—UP—The body of Frank Roderick, wealthy La Honda rancher who disappeared May 15, was found in an abandoned well of his ranch tonight.

Sheriff J. J. McGrath of San Mateo county, who directed the work of searchers declared evidence indicated Roderick had been killed and buried in the well.

The well had been filled with fresh earth since the rancher disappeared, McGrath said. The sheriff had not been able to ascertain the exact cause of death.

With discovery of the body it was revealed that Will Woodring, 36, neighbor of Roderick and a friend of the latter's widow had been held in jail here since Wednesday. No charge had been placed against him.

MAN SLAYS WIFE, SELF

SAN FRANCISCO, June 27.—UP—Three deaths in the San Francisco bay region in the past 24 hours were attributed tonight to marital troubles.

In Oakland, All Ferriera, 44, shot and killed his wife and then fired a bullet through his head, dying instantly.

Mrs. Elizabeth Rist, 42, was still in a critical condition tonight from a bullet wound inflicted by her husband, Fred Rist, 45, who shot himself through the heart.

City Attorneys Hold Meeting

OAKLAND, June 27.—UP—City attorneys in the San Francisco bay region met here today to discuss an organization so that they might "join together actively in all public utility matters before the railroad commission and the courts."

Preston Higgins, city attorney of Oakland, was named permanent chairman and H. A. Mason, of Palo Alto was elected secretary and treasurer.

It was decided that the chairman would appoint four regional vice presidents to serve as an executive committee and draft plans for attaining the purpose of the gathering.

There were 21 officials present and letters indicating interest in the movement were received from 22 others.

City Attorney Thomas M. Carlson of Richmond was scheduled to attend the meeting.

FLEAGLE TO RECEIVE AID

DENVER, Colo., June 27.—Ralph Fleagle, convicted Lamar bank bandit, is to have the aid of Attorney General William A. Smith of Kansas, in his effort to escape the noose at the Canon City penitentiary next month.

Fleagle maintains that the state bargained with him for his confession to the robbery and murders, promising a life sentence. Smith promises to appear before the governor of Colorado.

Although the judge declined to issue a restraining order, as asked by the poultryman, he did issue an order to Link to appear Monday and show cause why Goodrich's fervent prayer should not be answered.

Link has been moving planes to Brentwood to participate in the apricot festival which opened today, and his flying field is all most directly adjacent to Goodrich's poultry ranch. His take-offs and landings take him directly over the frantic chickens.

Goodrich, in his complaint, declares his chickens are thrown into paroxysms of fear by the low flying ship and asserts that some of them have become so unnerved, they are producing only soft shelled eggs, which have no commercial value.

He also alleges that the fear has stunted the growth of numerous fryers, and says the damage to his flocks is worth $200.

Encampment To Install Heads

Plans for installation of officers on July 12, were made at a meeting of C. C. Encampment of Odd Fellows in the Odd Fellow hall last night. Robert Windler, chief patriarch, presided at the meeting.

Richard Jones of Crockett, district deputy grand patriarch, who will act as installing officer, was present last night, and examined the officers in the lodge ritual.

P. H. Hooper, who has been in the east visiting relatives, gave an interesting account of his trip, which was made by automobile.

Following the meeting, a sumptuous banquet was served by a committee composed of Ernest Howsmon, Jack Pathe and H. R. David.

FLIER SUED FOR SOFT SHELL EGGS

MARTINEZ, June 27.—Soft shelled eggs, laid by chickens who have become unnerved by the constant passage of airplanes over their roosting abodes, today became the basis of a suit filed against Jack Link, aviator, by H. S. Goodrich, Brentwood poultryman.

Painting a verbal panorama of the disturbance and pandemonium that has been created among his flock of 2900 chickens, Goodrich appeared before Superior Judge A. B. McKenzie today asking damages and a restraining order preventing Link's projected flights from a 40 acre tract he has leased from the Balfour-Guthrie corporation.

Although the judge declined to issue a restraining order, as asked by the poultryman, he did issue an order to Link to appear Monday and show cause why Goodrich's fervent prayer should not be answered.

Link has been moving planes to Brentwood to participate in the apricot festival which opened today, and his flying field is all most directly adjacent to Goodrich's poultry ranch. His take-offs and landings take him directly over the frantic chickens.

Goodrich, in his complaint, declares his chickens are thrown into paroxysms of fear by the low flying ship and asserts that some of them have become so unnerved, they are producing only soft shelled eggs, which have no commercial value.

He also alleges that the fear has stunted the growth of numerous fryers, and says the damage to his flocks is worth $200.

Cinko Rites To Be Held Here Today

Last rites for William Cinko, six year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Antone Cinko, who was killed in a recent automobile accident, will be held at St. Paul's church, San Pablo, this afternoon. The funeral cortege will leave Wilson and Kratzer's chapel at 1:30 o'clock. The body will be laid to rest in St. Joseph's cemetery.

A rosary was recited for the boy last evening in the Wilson and Kratzer chapel.

CAPTAIN, CREW OF ATLANTIC PLANE FETED IN NEW YORK

WASHINGTON, June 27.—UP—The crew of the Southern Cross will be honored here Monday at a White House reception by President Hoover.

Captain Charles E. Kingsford-Smith, who has flown both the Atlantic and Pacific oceans in his craft, will be received by President Hoover at 12:30 p. m., shortly after a flight from Roosevelt Field, N. Y.

The giant plane will be received officially at Bolling Army Field when it arrives at 11 a. m.

CREW PAID HONOR AT NEW YORK CITY

NEW YORK, June 27.—UP—Land-bound for the first full day since they flew westward from Ireland, the men of the Southern Cross bought new suits today and went out to see the town. The town also saw them, with a reception at City Hall, the inevitable mark of formal greeting.

But before the day was over, representatives of Major Charles Kingsford-Smith announced plans for another long distance flight—this time a sweep across the continent from New York to San Francisco without a stop.

Should the Southern Cross be used for the journey, it will mean that the veteran monoplane will have completed an around-the-world flight. It was in that craft that Kingsford-Smith spanned the Pacific to Australia. There followed the memorable air voyage over Asia and Europe to London. (Continued on Page 5)

SCHOOL PAINT BIDS AWARDED

The paint bid on the Kensington school which has been held over since the opening of the bids was yesterday awarded to Patterson Brothers according to W. T. Helms, school superintendent. The price of the job will be $280.

Contracts for the painting of the other schools were awarded to J. J. Burdon, and work was started on the Roosevelt junior high school yesterday.

Butcher Death Held Suicide

MARTINEZ, June 27.—Harold Gairor, 36, Martinez butcher, who died at the shop in which he was employed Wednesday morning, committed suicide by drinking poison, a coroner's jury decided today at an inquest into his death.

The verdict was predicated on the autopsy report of Dr. John Beard, who testified that a chemical analysis of the man's stomach gave unmistakable evidence of strychnine poisoning.

Worry over financial difficulties is believed to have been the cause of the act.

Belon Returns To Duty From School

MARTINEZ, June 27.—after an absence of two weeks, during which he has been attending the state training school for traffic officers, Traffic Captain George Belon has returned to his duties here.

MOONEY, PAL WILL BE PARDONED

SAN FRANCISCO, June 27.—UP—The long awaited ruling of the state supreme court and Governor C. C. Young on pardons for Tom Mooney and Warren K. Billings will probably result in freedom for the two men, the United Press learned authoritatively today.

The fate of the two men, now serving their 13th year of imprisonment for perpetrating the Preparedness Day bombing in San Francisco in 1916, will probably be known early next week. After a prolonged deliberation over Billings' case, the supreme court will make known the findings at that time, it was learned. If the court should recommend a pardon for Billings, the United Press was informed, the governor intends pardoning them both.

Out of five suspects Mooney and Billings were convicted in 1916 and 1917, respectively, of planting the home-made bomb in Market street that burst in the midst of the Preparedness Day parade, killing six persons outright, and wounding three so badly that they died later, and injuring 40 others.

Mooney, first sentenced to death, was granted commutation of sentence by Governor Stephens at the instance of President Wilson, and in 1918 began serving a life term at San Quentin. Billings, with a prior conviction, went to Folsom for life.

Under California law, the governor may not consider a pardon application in the case of a two-time felon without a favorable recommendation by the supreme court. He has recently told friends, the United Press learned, that if the recommendation is favorable, he intends to pardon the two men.

Unemployed Miners Now Farm Hands

CAMP VERDE, Ariz., June 27.—UP—Until six weeks ago, Camp Verde was dubbed a "ghost town" but today, following opening of sodium sulphate mines and curtailment of copper production at United Verde copper mines at Jerome, Ariz., a wholesale influx of unemployed muckers have arrived here. Approximately 750 tons of sodium sulphate are being produced daily, giving employment to 200 men. Less fortunate miners are milking cows, mowing hay and finding odd jobs.

Wild West Lure Jails Two Boys

FLAGSTAFF, Ariz., June 27.—UP—Two San Francisco youths, Harold Reynolds and Robert Smith, who sought life in the wild west, were today sentenced to 60 days in jail for the theft of saddles. LOCAL WOMAN WINS DAMAGE SUIT AGAINST SON IN CRASH

MARTINEZ, June 27.—A jury in the court of Superior Judge H. V. Alvarado yesterday awarded Mrs. Olive Ledgerwood of Richmond $6000 damages against her son, Albert, 19, in her $11,100 suit arising out of an automobile accident some time ago.

Mrs. Ledgerwood sustained fractures of the vertebrae in her neck, according to her complaint. In the suit, she charged that her son was guilty of negligent driving, when his automobile, in which Mrs. Ledgerwood was a passenger, left the highway and plunged over an embankment near Ryde.

This was the second suit filed by Mrs. Ledgerwood. The first suit was decided in favor of the defendant in the court of Judge A. B. McKenzie, and when the new trial was started, the case was transferred to Judge Alvarado's court.

Youth Hangs Self At Home

PORTLAND, Ore., June 27.—UP—Edward Lamont Root, 17, a Jefferson high school graduate, hanged himself from a rafter in the attic of his home here today. An hour before his body was found by his grandmother, Mrs. Edward Root, he had apparently been in high spirits, happy and singing about the house.

He was said to have brooded for some time about not being allowed to go to Chicago with his father, William E. Root. His mother is dead, and Mrs. Root said she and her husband adopted him when he was five years of age.

Charles Renwick, manager of the Pacific Minerals company, has recently returned from a business trip to Placerville.

PRIVATE AID TO FINANCE PROBE

WASHINGTON, June 27.—UP—President Hoover, after another clash with the senate today, took his case over the head of congress.

In less than two hours after the senate voted to restrict his Wickersham Crime Commission's activities to prohibition, Hoover announced the present wide program would be carried out with private funds.

The gesture was almost Rooseveltian, and followed closely on Hoover's success in over-riding congressional action on the war veterans bill. That success, however, was reached within congress with the aid of Speaker Longworth. Today's action, however, amounts to single handed defiance of at least 35 senators who put across the amendment which stripped the Wickersham commission.

Action Legal
The senate's action will not violate the commission with $130,000 to investigate prohibition. The restriction as to what to inquire into covered only the use of the money appropriated, so Hoover's action in seeking funds for other activities is believed entirely legal.

"If anybody is simple enough to give the money, it's all right with me," was the comment of Senator Glass, Dem., Va., and dry, who, single handed led the senate fight which resulted in the restriction.

ODD FELLOWS BEAT BANK NINE

A hitting spree in the sixth and seventh innings was largely responsible for the Odd Fellows' 7 to 3 victory over the Mechanics Bank nine yesterday afternoon on the high school field.

Until the sixth period, the Odd Fellows had only one run to show for their hard work, while the Mechanics Bank had piled up a total of three runs.

But the lodges suddenly found themselves in the sixth, and proceeded to slam in three counters. Three more runs in the seventh inning established the Odd Fellows' victory.

Both Babich of the Odd Fellows and Bono of the Bankers' nine displayed clever mound work yesterday on the high school diamond. Babich allowed six hits, while Bono was nipped for nine. Babich fanned nine bankers, and Bono sent seven Odd Fellows to the bench via the whiff route. Babich allowed three walks, while Bono allowed four Lodgemen to trot to the first bag.

Yesterday's battle sent the Odd Fellows back into a tie for first place in the Richmond City Twilight league with the Firemen.

The Odd Fellows will again see action when they mix with the Lions Monday afternoon on the high school field at 5:15 o'clock.

GARDEN MOVES TO PUT HALT ON FOULS

NEW YORK, June 27.—UP—Madison Square Garden, the corporation of "600" millionaires which dominates boxing in New York and controls the heavy-weight situation throughout the world, promised today to cooperate in a movement to stamp out the foul evil and "give the public a run for its money."

Frank Bruen, vice president of the Garden in charge of boxing, told the United Press that his organization agreed there was need of immediate action to end the veritable epidemic of fouls such as have ended many recent boxing bouts.

"The problem is not an easy one," Bruen pointed out. "For almost every proposed solution there are several valid objections. But, the public deserves a run for its money, and we'll just have to figure out some way to make fighters stop hitting low or from claiming fouls."

Pointing out that the proposal to issue "foul checks" good for another bout between the principals in case one was fouled, was impractical, Bruen offered the following suggestions:

- 1—Require boxers to wear sufficient protection so that no blow however delivered, could incapacitate them for long.
- 2—In case of a low blow disabling one boxer temporarily, assist him to his dressing room and put on a preliminary bout, allowing the stricken fighter 20 30 minutes to recover.
- 3—Penalize severely any boxer who repeatedly strikes low blows; bar for life a fighter who deliberately fights foul.

Well-known as the manager of a number of prominent race tracks, Bruen pointed out that on the turf a jockey convicted of foul riding was barred everywhere by agreement between the various jockey clubs.

Bruen said he did not believe that taping a boxer was sufficient deterrent to the prevailing fouling evil, which is rapidly getting boxing a bad name and alienating the sympathies of the cash customers, upon whom it depends for its very existence. But he does feel that barring a man who commits a foul for a sufficiently long time to make it hurt, might help.

Army League Idea Scored

WASHINGTON, June 27.—UP—Secretary of State Stimson today sought to reassure the senate that the London conference did not involve discussion of a league of nations army and navy.

Stimson wrote Chairman Borah of the Senate Foreign Relations committee that the project never was discussed. He said so far as he knew the American delegates were unaware of the existence in navy department files of a document entitled "proposed plans for the establishment of a league of nations army and navy."

"Neither I nor any other delegate at the London conference were aware of its existence," Stimson's letter said.

German Razor Ads Pay Doughboy Honor

PARIS—Germany has paid an unsuspected but belated tribute to the American doughboy.

German cutlery makers are flooding the Continental markets with a cheap safety razor blade which is presented in an attractive envelope with wording printed in English. The blade is named "Army Blade," with a picture of an infantryman, and the phrase, "Best on Earth."

The surprise comes in the fact that the pictured soldier is an American doughboy, now admitted "best on earth."

WELTER CHAMP PREPARES FOR CORBETT

By MAYNARD C. YOUNGS
With less than a week of training left, Jack Thompson, welter-weight champion of the world and Young Corbett III, leading contender, are rounding rapidly into perfect shape for the battle, which will be held July Fourth at Ewing field.

The bout will be over the 10 round route and will not be for the title.

Thompson the champion, from the writer's point of view, does not seem especially different from the Thompson who fought around the east bay a year or so ago, with perhaps the exception of a lot of self-confidence.

The champion is also probably keeping himself in better physical condition than here-to-fore, but outside of that and a little more confidence, Young Jack is about the same person he was when he was training at the Imperial gym in Oakland a year ago.

Corbett, on the other hand, is ready for the fight of his life. He recently defeated Jackie Fields, then welter champ, in a 10 round non-title bout in San Francisco.

As usual the Fresnan fought his tugging, mauling battle, but looked good nevertheless.

Thompson has been training with as many southpaw sparring partners as are available, and has been giving instructions that they hold as much in the clinches as possible, and to tug and pull whenever they are able. In this manner of sparring, Thompson hopes to be ready for the Corbett style, that of swinging with the left hand and pulling and hauling in the clinches.

GARY COOPER IN NEW FILM AT CALIFORNIA

Gary Cooper has been provided with an excellent supporting cast in "Only the Brave," his second starring talkie, which is the main attraction on the big bill at the Fox-California theater Sunday.

Heading the support is Mary Brian, winsome miss who leaped into the limelight several years ago in "Peter Pan." Miss Brian has appeared in seven talking pictures in the last year and a half. Among the more recent are "The Virginian," "The Marriage Play-ground" and "Burning Up."

Phillips Holmes plays Mary's jilted lover. He was seen and heard in "Pointed Heels" and "The Return of Sherlock Holmes."

Morgan Farley plays the dramatic role of Captain Tom Wendall. He was seen and heard in "The Greene Murder Case," "The Love Doctor" and "The Mighty."

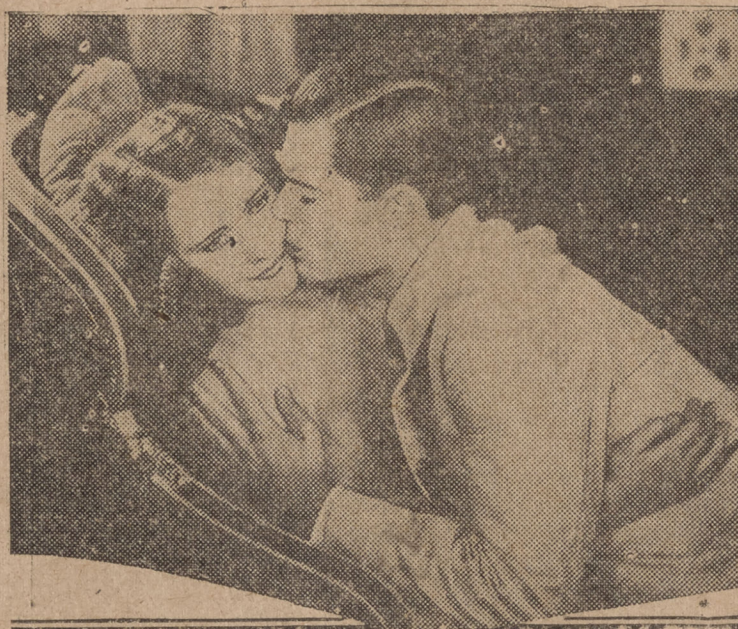

Guy Oliver is cast as General Grant. He has played over 300 film parts.

James Neill as Vance Calhoun here plays another characterization which helps to distinguish his long career before the camera.

William LeMaire as the sentry makes his film debut here. He is the "Sweet William" of "Sweet William and Bad Bill," phonograph record and vaudeville fame.

Virginia Bruce was the blonde daughter of Eugene Pallett in "Slightly Scarlet." Freeman S. Wood was the villainous plotter in "Why Bring That Up?"

The Rose

"MEXICALI ROSE" which is now being shown at the Fox California theater stars Barbara Stanwyck and William Janney.

REG DENNY IN FILM PLAY AT RICHMOND

Reginald Denny, star of "Embarrassing Moments," Universal talking comedy now at the Richmond theater, has had one of the most adventurous careers in film.

He has done everything from prize-fighting to hunting mountain lions with bows and arrows.

Denny, who was born in England of theatrical parents, took to the stage at an early age. In his youth when his company was laid off, he took a fling at prize-fighting to earn money, having been given considerable training by a famous English sportsman.

One of his experiences was being stranded in India while touring Asia with an opera company. Even after he had made an assured place for himself in films, adventure kept dogging him. On one occasion his airplane "cracked up." On another he had to fight a forest fire to save his cabin in the San Bernardino mountains in California.

Denny is a passionate devotee of aviation, having served in the British Royal Flying Corps in the World War. He is extremely fond of hunting and deep-sea fishing.

Denny has one of his most amusing roles in "Embarrassing Moments," the cast of which also includes Merna Kennedy, Otis Harlan, Virginia Sale, Greta Granstedt and Mary Foy.

Lucich Trial Again Delayed
SAN RAFAEL, June 27.—UP—Trial of Vincent Lucich, who was charged with first degree murder after his surrender while the killing of Melville G. Sturtevant, a government witness in prohibition cases, was being investigated was adjourned early this afternoon until Saturday.

The adjournment was ordered while attorneys for both prosecution and defense checked up on evidence needed.

The sudden halt prevented Gus Oliva, San Francisco politician, from taking the stand today to "clear" his name mentioned by Mrs. Grace Berri, star witness for the state, as having been spoken twice by Lucich as one of the latter's employers.

GARY COOPER and Mary Brian are starred in "Only the Brave" which is to be shown at the Fox California theater.

Boy Injured By Cartridge

Playing in the yard of his home at 926 Chanslor avenue, Raymond Hastings, 13 year old son of Mr. and Mrs. R. R. Hastings was seriously burned by the explosion of a cartridge.

The explosion set fire to the front of his shirt and burned his eyes, necessitating the attention of an Oakland specialist.

As his mother rushed to the rescue, the lad succeeded in pulling off his burning shirt. His chest was also burned although not so seriously as his eyes.

POPULATION OF SAN PABLO 3225

The people of the San Pablo township have just completed a piece of work that has taken twenty days of activity which shows that the population of the township is 3,225 and not 2,942 as was reported by the late federal census.

At the time the federal census was announced many residents of that section were positive the territory contained a greater population, and the new census just completed, bears out their assertions.

PRESIDENT TO MEET OCEAN FLIERS

And at yesterday's dusk, the trimotored Fokker rolled to a stop at Roosevelt Field after having settled at Harbor Grace, N. F., at the end of a trans-Atlantic flight.

Need Rest

The tentative program calls for "plenty of rest" and only minor engagements Saturday and Sunday. Monday morning the fliers will depart by plane for Washington, where they will be received by President Hoover, and the projected take-off for California is scheduled for late Monday or early Tuesday.

The fliers, Kingsford - Smith, Evert Van Dyk, John Stannage and J. Patrick Saul, arose at 7.30 a. m. today, after only six hours of sleep. Though a fully international group, representing Australia, Holland, South Africa and Ireland, they sat down to a typical American breakfast—grapefruit, ham and eggs, toast and coffee.

The city hall ceremonies were briefly delayed because Kingsford-Smith was in rapid conversation with Col. James Fitzmaurice, one of the three fliers who crossed the Atlantic in an east to west flight aboard the Bremen in 1925. They were so interestedly comparing notes, especially concerning the inexplicable behavior of compasses off the Grand Banks that the mayor's committee hesitated to interfere.

A moment of excitement was furnished when a photographer's stand, four or five feet high, gave way and tumbled a score of cameramen to the pavement. No one was seriously bruised, however, and the episode merely gave Mayor Walker a chance to comment that the aviators had better luck in avoiding crashes than the cameramen.

Large Crowd

"Yes," said Kingsford - Smith a short time later, "fortunately we couldn't give you an exhibition such as we have just had here—a tailspin to the ground."

A crowd of 5,000 looked on as the fliers were being presented with a scroll and being inundated by phrases praising their bravery. It was emphasized that the cross-ocean venture was no "stunt" but a remarkable illustration of aeronautical knowledge. Kingsford-Smith summed up the sentiments of himself and his men, when, in a somewhat nervous reply, he said:

"Thank God, we did a good job."

Church School Exercises At First Baptist

Culminating a successful term, closing exercises by pupils of the Richmond Daily Vacation church school were held in the gymnasium of the First Baptist church last night before a large crowd of parents and friends.

An interesting exhibit and program showing what has been accomplished in the three weeks term was presented by the six combined churches.

Craft work that was completed by the pupils was displayed and a program demonstrating memory work, songs and yells, were presented under the direction of Rev. H. A. Kern, dean of the school.

Short talks were given by E. George Harlow, for the council of Religious Education, B. X. Tucker, in behalf of the school; Rev. C. G. Lindemann, greetings from the churches, and Mayor A. L. Paulson on behalf of the city.

Rev. A. A. Pratt presided last night. The schools represented were the First Presbyterian, First Christian, First Baptist, Wesley Methodist, Community and East Side churches.

Oakland Man Found Dead In Desert

BUCKEYE, Ariz., June 27.—UP—Deputy Sheriffs today identified the body of a man found on the desert near Liberty, Ariz., late Thursday, as Alfred I. A. Beavin, Oakland, civil engineer.

His meager supply of water exhausted, Beavin apparently was stricken by the scorching desert sun, Deputy Sheriff W. J. Rainey declared.

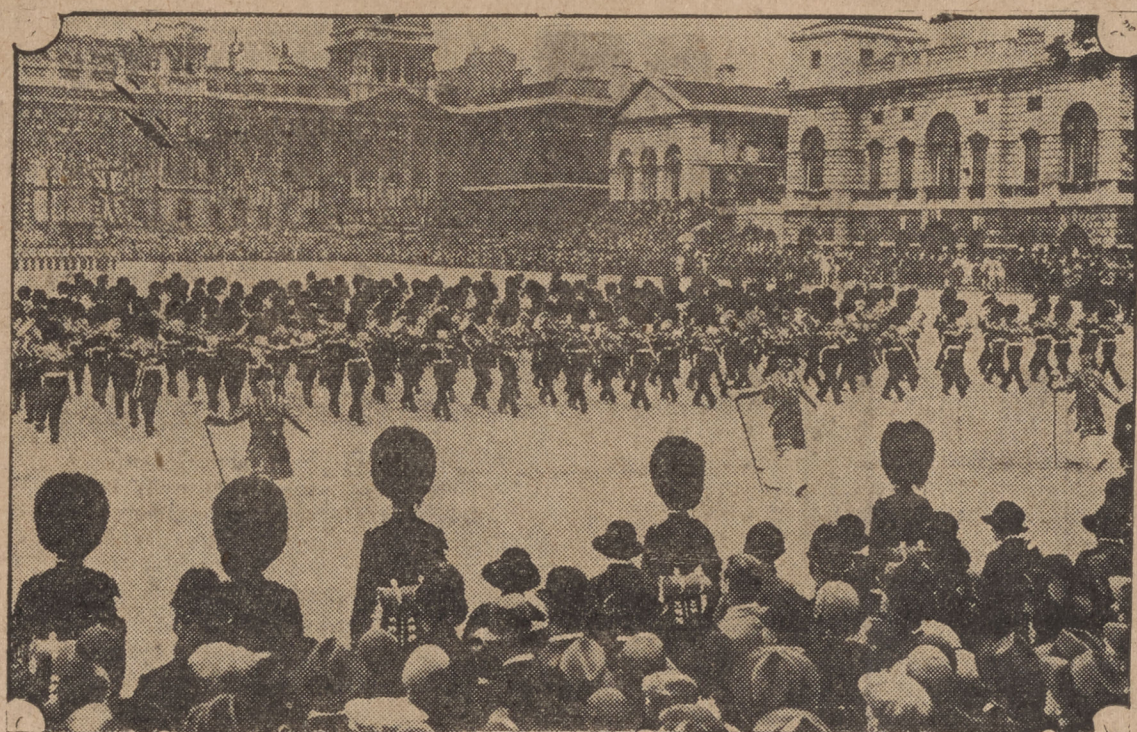

"Death from thirst" was the verdict of a coroner's jury.

A Masonic lodge card bearing Beavin's name and Lodge No. 283 at Anaconda, Mont., was found among letters addressed to his widow at Oakland. A valuable watch and $6 in currency was found in the desert victim's pockets.

Liberty storekeepers recalled Beavin had visited them last week, obtaining food and a canteen of water. He started out over the desert for the purpose of locating a homestead site. He was said to have been about 55 years of age.

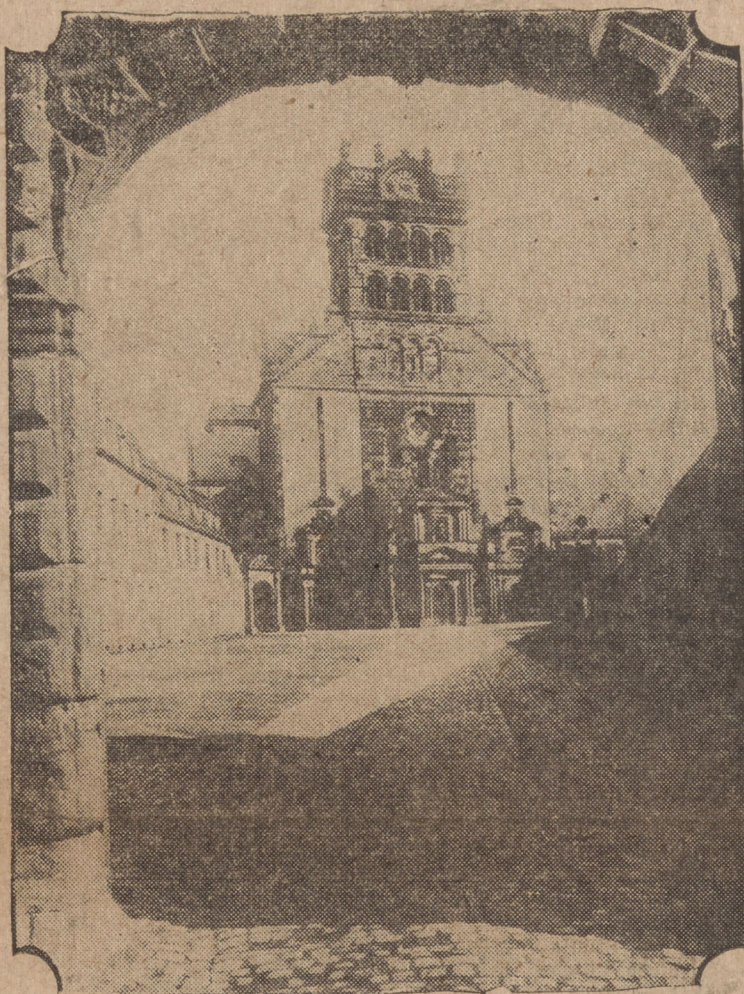

Until identification was made, authorities were of the belief that that dead man was the Rev. T. W. Howard, former circuit rider of Minnesota, who disappeared from Tucson June 7, and for whom a search of the desert had been conducted.

REBELS WIN IN BOLIVIAN REVOLT

ANTOFAGASTA, Chile, June 27.—UP—Unconfirmed reports late tonight said the last remnants of the besieged old regime's forces had surrendered and La Paz, Bolivian capital, was in the hands of the revolutionists.

The reports, which trickled across the Bolivian border throughout an anxious day indicating the revolution was proceeding rapidly and that in La Paz, street fighting continued.

Many were reported dead and wounded in the clashes at La Paz, but casualties could not be estimated. Direct telegraphic communications remained severed.

Rebels Triumph

A report from Oruro, Bolivia, tonight said it was announced there the revolution had triumphed throughout the republic, and that there was great rejoicing.

Hernando Siles, who resigned as president of Bolivia recently, was reported a refugee in the besieged palace, together with Gen. Hans Kundt, German chief-of-staff of the Bolivian army under Siles.

Previous reports had said they sought asylum in the United States legation.

The revolutionaries were apparently victorious elsewhere throughout Bolivia. The towns of Oruro, Potosi, Sucre and Cochamba were reported controlled by the insurrectionists.

The former government, reported to have resigned last night, was said today to have the support of two regiments, barricaded in the Plaza Murillo.

It was impossible to estimate the result of the street clashes in the barricaded capital, but indirect reports said a number of prominent officials in the old government were among those dead and wounded.

Aid Exiles

Telegraphic communication with La Paz have been disrupted for almost 48 hours. Officials were unable to ascertain whether their lines had been cut or their offices in La Paz closed, they said.

Gen. Blanco Galindo was reported in control of Oruro, in western Bolivia—an important mining center—where it was understood a junta of two civilians and two military men had been organized.

The new regime was said to have agreed to authorize repatriation of all former exiles from Bolivia.

DRY LAW ARMY SHAKEUP TO BE MADE

WASHINGTON, June 27.—UP—Complete reorganization of the federal prohibition machinery carrying out President Hoover's campaign pledge of more effective enforcement was announced yesterday by Attorney General Mitchell, who on July 1 assumes supreme command of the government's dry army.

On that date, prohibition enforcement will be transferred from the treasury to the justice department where better enforcement is expected to be obtained through closer relations between prosecutors and agents.

Twelve new prohibition administrative districts will replace the existing 27 districts and the present dry agents and staffs are to be divided 1700 to the treasury which will retain control of the industrial alcohol permissive system and 2700 to the justice department. The new districts correspond roughly to the present ten judicial circuits.

Districts and administrators selected to head them include:

No. 11—California and Nevada, headquarters at San Francisco, under William C. Walker, incumbent.

Many prohibition administrators who have figured prominently in enforcement under the treasury are retained by Secretary Mellon to administer the industrial alcohol permissive system. They included William R. Woods, Jr., San Francisco, and F. R. McReynolds, Seattle.

Four Paving Men Acquitted

OAKLAND, June 27.—UP—Four paving men were acquitted by a jury here tonight after a brief trial on charges of subornation of perjury in which they were not required to present a defense.

Judge J. B. Landis ordered the jury to return a verdict of "not guilty" immediately after the prosecution rested. The jurors followed these instructions an hour and a half after they retired.

The men freed are: Archibald Borland, Charles D. Bates, John Bowersmith and Phillip Johns.

Harold Lloyd On Stand In Movie Suit

LOS ANGELES, June 27.—UP—A direct contrast to his hilarious screen portrayals, Harold Lloyd sincere and serious, denied in court here today that he plagiarized the plot for "The Freshman," a silent picture he made several years ago.

The comedian was called to the stand by attorneys for Mrs. Sadie Witwer, who asks $1,000,000 from him on the contention that "The Freshman" actually was based on a story written by her late husband, H. C. Witwer, noted humorist.

"No sir, that's not true," Lloyd answered when he was asked if the plot of Witwer's "The Emancipation of Rodney" was not used in "The Freshman."

Later the comedian admitted Witwer had submitted his story as possible for screen adoption but that Lloyd turned it down.

Lloyd indignantly denied that he ever took ideas from any magazine stories, novels or old motion pictures.

Mrs. Witwer then rested her case and counsel for Lloyd entered a motion for a non-suit. Federal Judge George Cosgrave will rule on the motion tomorrow morning.

FABLES FOR THE FAIR

Eve Had to Feed the Brute

ONCE upon a time there was a lady named Eve who lived in a Garden—No, this isn't exactly the same story which you've heard so many times.

On the contrary, it's a brand-new scientific version.

Which has just been published in Copenhagen by a distinguished Danish scientist, Dr. Ditlef Nielson.

This scientist, after long and careful investigation into the history of religion,

Now announces that the downfall of Adam in the Garden of Eden

Was not caused by the apple—

Not at all; the temptation of Adam

Took the form of a pine cone.

Eve, says Dr. Nielson, handed to Adam

An Asiatic fruit called peri,

Which is now known as a pine cone.

The scientist bases his theory

On the discovery of a picture—no, not a Garden snapshot.

But a work of art dating from early Babylonian times, Which, according to Dr. Nielson, shows Adam and Eve

Under a pine tree with a pine cone. So there you are—we trust it all perfectly clear.

The Tree of Knowledge bore not an apple but a pine cone, or peri, And the fruit for one of earth's most delectable pines

Is now freed from even the shadow of an early reputation for evil. But what must interest and amuse womankind

In this latest revision, from Denmark, of the Fall of Man. Because he followed too much the devices and desires of the First Woman

Is simply this: the more the story changes in detail. The more it remains the same in its chief essentials.

That a woman was to blame for the whole sad business! Never, never can our sex get over the way in which the Eve-Adam affair is told.

The pure chivalry, the eager masculine readiness to take all the blame—

Yes, it is so easy, in the first place, for the woman with sympathy and intelligence

To understand what, in effect, must have happened in the Garden. And the reasons for its happening.

There were Eve and Adam cooped up on the most exclusive of honeymoons.

With not much to do and—even more important from Adam's viewpoint—Not much to eat!

A diet of fruit and raw vegetables is simply a little less than nothing. If you ask the average man, even the average housewife

A bride can live on love and kisses and moonlight and not much else. But the husband of her heart, however devoted, wants his three square meals a day.

And generally speaking, insists on being carnivorous.

Well, then, a married woman can so easily imagine what Adam said to Eve

Before she offered him the apple: "Is this all we have for dinner?" he probably asked, half plaintively, half indignantly.

"Nothing seems to have any taste to it."

"Can't you find something new?" "After all, you've got to know how to cook, no matter how new she is."

"There seems to be a lot of food around this place."

"But it doesn't stay by—can't you get something different?" Eve listened lovingly, sadly—

A bride is never quite happy when she first discovers

How importantly food looms in her husband's scheme of things.

It seemed to Eve that she had invented every possible salad.

And simply serving fruit on different sorts of leaf plates.

Or with the grassy tablecloth charmingly decorated with flowers.

Did not, apparently, make it taste any better to Adam.

What was there left?

What could she do to feed her starving spouse?

It was at this moment of despair, of anxious devotion.

That the serpent whispered in Eve's ear:

"Why don't you give him an apple (or a pine cone, says Dr. Nielson). From the Tree of Knowledge?"

"Yes, it's fruit, but it's different from every other kind—"

"Neither of you ever ate anything else like it—"

"He'll be simply crazy over it, you see if he isn't."

"He'll tell you that you're the most wonderful little woman in the world."

"He hasn't said that to you for several days—had you noticed?"

"That sneaky little serpent has been making eyes at him too."

"And I'll tell you this—you'd better offer him a pine cone (or an apple) pretty quick."

"Or he'll beat you to it—"

"Remember—as every woman after you will have to remember—"

"That the way to a man's heart is through his stomach—"

"That the first law for a wife is: 'Feed the brute!'"

"You love Adam—don't you love him enough to take a chance?"

"And give him a bite of that marvelous, appetizing, delicious fruit of the Tree of Knowledge?"

Like every devoted wife, Eve longed to feed her husband well and make him happy.

So she listened to the serpent—so she plucked the pine-cone-apple.

So she offered Adam the first bite—she was polite, but greedy.

You know what happened next—but every good wife will maintain

That Eve acted from the best motives, that there was every excuse in the world for her.

What we and other women never have been able to get over

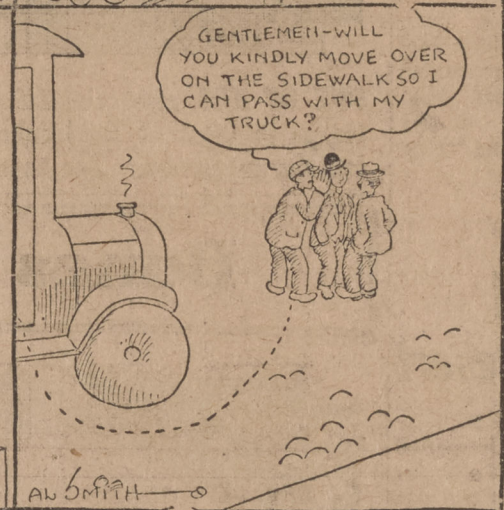

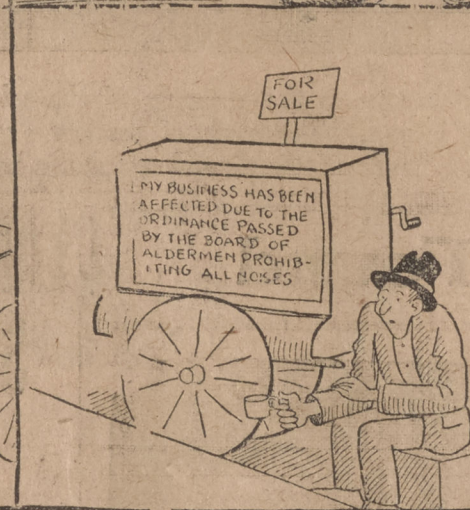

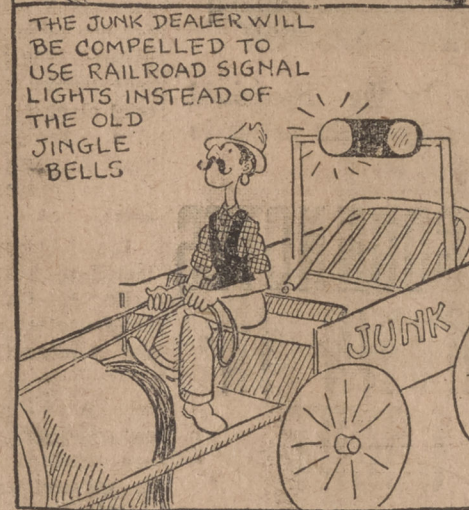

Is Adam's blithe back-passing, his brazen chattering behind his wife's petticoats—

"The woman tempted me and I did eat," forthwith!

In short, I am the world's good little boy, and I never would have done a thing

If the naughty little girl to whom I happen to be married had not led me on!

Silence!

Old Home of Servants Landlord's Best Rental

GAY STRIPED AWINGS AND UNUSUAL ACCESSORIES GIVE THIS DUPLEX PENT HOUSE A FOREIGN AIR

Laws Once Required Lessee of Penthouse to Be Rated as an Employee of the Building

By Alina Weiss

Copyright Press Publishing Company (New York World) 1930

IF IT is interesting to follow the architectural development of the penthouse from its humble beginnings to the magnificent elaborations it now enjoys

It should prove doubly so to review it as an investment. For even the business of leasing the penthouse has been revolutionized.

When apartment dwellers first began to see the possibilities of penthouses and attempted to live in them, they had to be very roundabout in their order to come within the law. If one wanted to live on the roof he must become an employee of the building—a pseudo superintendent, or at least a servant, according to the building law.

So early leases were made in two parts: one section being a contract setting forth the employment of the would-be tenant at a salary of $1 a year; the second part a regular rental lease between landlord and tenant.

So much for the law. As usual, instead of proving a barrier it was a strong stimulant. Soon landlords, sensing the growing popularity of the penthouse, succeeded in having the law modified. Rents soared. And from thenceforth definite architectural plans were made for the beautification of the roof-top home.

To those who have been thinking of the penthouse in unembellished terms, the accompanying illustration gives a fine idea of the artistic possibilities with rough brick stairs leading up to a wrought iron grille which guards the upper apartment.

And Tudor City—that great pile of masonry which boasts a penthouse for every apartment building in its group—also furnishes innumerable proofs of the same point. It was most enlightening to discuss with Mr. Douglas Ives, of the Fred F. French Companies, the gradual method by which certain changes were brought about.

To-day, aside from the design of the penthouse proper, he tells us, attention is given to every detail found above the apartment roof. Formerly it was not legal to inclose the fire tanks. Now, since the penthouse has come to be desirable and revenue producing, builders and owners have obtained more kindly laws and devised architectural features to conceal offending spots, this in its turn is reforming the skyline of our larger cities, exchanging for shapeless tanks and pipes protruding from the tops of flat roofs the most enchanting towers, facades, pergolas and spires which mask the ugly details and silhouette themselves sharply against the sky.

And quite unconsciously, the new type of architecture helps the good work along, for in the presence of the flying buttresses and the setback skyscraper of to-day—what creative mind could resist the temptation to idealize the home in the air?

Before long—unless we are very much mistaken—amazingly beautiful penthouses will be built by men who see great possibilities in becoming specialists in this new field of city architecture.

For a dinner in particular and for any party at which there is no servant to lend aid, the first point is to allow yourself ample time to make your preparations; the second is to have everything possible done in advance, so that you have an opportunity to put yourself into a state of calm and serenity. Upon this state almost to a hundred per cent, depends the success of your dinner, formal or informal.

Your table should be laid at least an hour before dinner is to be served, and you will want it to look as attractive as may be when you all troop to it. Just for a suggestion, deep yellow is always lovely; a natural toned linen cloth with a line of narrow rail lace run down each side for the table covering; a yellow potpourri bowl of flowers in the center; yellow pottery candlesticks and candles, one at either side; a tiny yellow dish of salted nuts at one corner and diagonally opposite one of candied ginger or lemon peel, cigarettes and ash trays, and a dish of olives or, if you prefer, two, and—salt and pepper.

A service plate is at each place, with the napkin folded on it, or if you are having melon or a fruit or clam juice cocktail, it is on the plate and the napkin is beside the plate at the right; the knife is at the right; the fork or forks at the left; the water glass, filled, is at the tip of the knife, and if you are having canapés or oysters, whatever you have, for a main dish, it with its accompanying vegetables or salad, may as well be already on the table, but with them respective covers over them while the first course is being eaten.

You should be dressed and ready to receive your guests a full half hour before the time for them to arrive. You meet them at the door, show them where to remove their wraps and their hats, and then you chat among yourselves. Then you may excuse yourself, or simply slip away to the kitchen to bring the hot things to the table, see that all is as should be, not forgetting the tea stand or tea wagon, or both, which should be placed just back or at the right of your own chair, and on which you have your dessert with all the paraphernalia of plates, etc.

Designate the seats for each of your guests, and, if you like, you may have one of the hot dishes placed before the one at the end of the table opposite you, your place being, of course, at the head.

As each course is disposed of, you, as hostess, quietly take the soiled plates which the guests pass to you and place them on the lower shelf of your tea stand, or if you have two stands, on the one reserved for the soiled dishes. You do not, naturally, try to remove the used dishes until every one has finished.

Then, having cleared the table for dessert, place the dessert in front of you with the pile of plates beside it and serve as you did with the meat course, passing the plates alternately to the right and left until all are served. Coffee you may serve at the table or in your living room afterward, but if the latter way, do have a stand or tabourette ready to receive a large tray on which you have previously arranged all the necessary coffee equipment. You might delegate one of your men guests, if men are present, to carry the tray for you.

Do not, if it can possibly be arranged, leave the table while your guests are seated at it, nor from then on. You give the signal to rise from the table and lead the way to the living room, and except for snuffing out the candles, you do not, you must not, do anything toward clearing away. Simply turn out the lights and leave the table "as is" to devote yourself to the further entertainment of your guests till "good nights" are said.

A tea is the least trouble and expense, a dinner the most and a Sunday night supper most fun. At least that is the way I should schedule them, but of course it all depends on any number of things, different in individual cases.

The Importance of Being Fragrant

WE MEAN natural fragrance. The fresh aroma of scrupulous cleanliness, the "atmosphere" of a body that is exquisitely cared for. Now that warm weather is upon us, it is of the utmost importance that this natural fragrance be preserved always.

Highly perfumed dusting powders will not conceal sins of omission in the matter of grooming. Nor will pungent toilet waters, nor the latest scientific miracle in deodorants. There is no substitute for the habit of frequent bathing and wearing freshly laundered under-clothing.

With cleanliness as a foundation, a delicate bath talcum, toilet water or "misture" for the perfume of the individual taste runs to, one's natural fragrance is simply heightened and prolonged. And so much for natural causes.

There are other people who, though immaculate as to their persons, yet lack the clean, sweet aroma of a normal body properly cared for. The source of such a misfortune is most usually to be found within. Certain systemic acid conditions are to blame. The choice of foods may be a cause, too.

Since the skin bears a great part of the burden of throwing off the system's waste matter it is not illogical to conclude that external care of the skin and other "strong" edibles must occasionally be lacking in fragrance. Correction of the lack is not difficult in this case.

But where the unfragrant condition is stubborn, where it does not yield to the usual treatment—abstinence from "strong" foods and the use of deodorants and so forth—it is wisdom to call in the aid of a physician. And not only for the mere sake of one's attractiveness either.

Oftentimes excessive perspiration is a signal that illness lies ahead. From that point of view the condition is not such a great misfortune after all. In a sense, it is a friendly warning and one that the man or medicine knows best how to deal with.

Where a mild acid condition is the cause of abnormal perspiration it is well to omit from the daily menu the following foods: Red meats, tea, coffee, tomatoes, berries, an excess of sweets and starches. Most of the green vegetables are excellent, as counteragents and so, of course, is lemon juice.

When Baby Goes Motoring

ON a motory trip a mother was distressed to find the baby's bottles had not been properly packed and had become cold.

For a few minutes there was consternation in the party then dad had a bright idea. He just drew off some hot water from the radiator into an emergency can he always had in the car. They set the bottle in the hot water and the problem was solved.

Now, whenever they take a long motor trip the baby's bottles are packed in a small kettle with a piece of ice and well covered with newspaper, and when baby's meal time arrives dad provides the hot water and the milk is warmed.

TELLING THE WORLD

(In continuing our home correspondence lessons, the story of Hugo McNary, the Slot Machine King, should be an inspiration to every American boy. This includes the South American territory, too. Born of poor parents; mother and father respectively, Mr. McNary grasped the iron while it was hot and started operating gum slot machines. In a comparatively brief period of Eastern standard time, he had an income of $30,000 a year, all in pennies. What this poor immigrant boy could do, you can also accomplish in some other chosen profession. That is the purpose of these articles—to touch off sparks in every reader's breast and let him place his way to success, provided, of course, he is covered by fire insurance. This is the fourth in a series of articles that seems endless. We strive to make each one of these stories better than the previous one and feel we have succeeded. At any rate, hundreds of readers have told us they couldn't be worse. Now let us turn our attention to Hugo McNary's life.)

HOULDING A FORTUNE FROM A RED CENT

By Hugo McNary

TEN years ago if any one told me I would get wealthy on pennies, I would have said he was crazy, although perhaps not out loud.

First of all, I was not born with a golden spoon in my cereal. My father was a floorwalker in an orangeade stand and mother had to knit my shoes and stockings to pay the rent.

As a child I was somewhat of a dreamer, especially at night. This rather displeased my parents, and I fitted like a mattress in a vanity case. When I grew up to be thirty-six years of age paper told me it was time to go out and look for a job. I always had an ambition to do great feats in vaudeville, but although I scanned the want ads for years, I never saw a request for an unskilled wire walker. So I decided to change my plans.

One day I overheard father say would never set the world on fire, so I gave up the idea of becoming President of the Arson Ring. This was quite a blow to me, as I was rather clever at lighting matches and felt that some day I would make my mark at this trade. But after this I studied anatomy and tried to discover why moths are attracted to flannel pants. I knew if I could learn this secret I could turn it into cash.

This idea proved a dud and then came the stroke of fortune that put me on No. 367 Easy Street. I originated the idea of installing Hugo McNary slot machines in every conceivable place. Of course slot machine are nothing new. There have always been hundreds of them that delivered a piece of gum once in two or three times. But my slot machines were the first ones that failed to deliver a piece of gum at ANY time. I perfected them mechanically, so they NEVER gave a piece of gum, even by mistake.

The idea caught on with the public very fast. For years they have been dropping pennies in the slot, never knowing whether they would get gum or not. So naturally they welcomed my machines, which ran my bank.

"A penny a push profit" was the result. To-day I take in $1,000 a week and people often stand in line to drop pennies into my machines. I am also looked upon as a public benefactor because poor people who cannot afford to play Wall Street can patronize my slot machines and get the same results.

HOOVER WILL FORCE CRIME PROBE

consultation with five members of the crime commission, including chairman Wickersham.

May Aid
Likelihood that Hoover himself would put up some of the money, and Wickersham some too, was seen, although Mr. Hoover merely said: "I have no doubt there are private citizens sufficiently anxious for the nation to know the whole truth as to what constructive remedies may be suggested by so eminent a body of men and women as this commission, that I shall be able to secure from private sources the $100,000 necessary to carry this work forward to completion."

Offers by private persons to contribute to the commission's activities have been received and rejected by the president in recent months. It was said at the White House. It was believed that President Hoover expects these and other citizens to come forward with new offers, now that he has spread the word that the money is needed.

One of the senate's richest men, Senator Couzens, Repn., Mich., who is noted for his donations, refused to comment except to note "I haven't been asked for anything yet." In the project, Senator Couzens voted to uphold the president today, favoring the $250,000 appropriation asked by the commission and embodied by Chairman Jones of the appropriations committee in an amendment.

Full Program
The president's statement emphasized that 70 per cent of the inmates were there for other than dry law crimes.

"I cannot abandon the question for one moment or allow the work of the commission to cease," he said.

"I have asked the commission to proceed with its full program of work and it has consented to do so."

Small Margin
The members of the committee who conferred with him today, in addition to Wickersham, were Dean Roscoe Pound, Miss Ada L. Comstock, Henry W. Anderson and Monte M. Lemann.

The senate's final action was taken after the Jones amendment was adopted by a one vote margin, 30 to 29. The dynamic Glass got Senator Overman, Dem., N. C., who was absent on the first vote, to move a reconsideration, which carried 33 to 32. Thereupon the finance committee amendment was adopted 35 to 30, this action having the effect of rejecting the Jones' proposal.

Bible School Sessions End In Richmond

The closing of the primary department of the Daily Vacation Church school took place yesterday with special displays at the First Christian church. Pictures were taken by Mrs. C. C. Kratzer, one of the faculty members, of the flag drills, and some of the special exhibits, and will be used later in the school paper.

Boys who made gliders under the direction of Martin Crabb will enter them in the glider contest to be held at Lincoln school. The utilization of waste articles has been stressed in the making of toys and small gifts that were on display during the day at the church, and in the evening at the First Baptist church. Toys and small gifts that were made during the church school session will be given each child.

The principal of the primary department was Mrs. James Brackett, with Mrs. C. C. Kratzer, Mrs. E. R. DeSantis, Martin Crabb Plate, Muriel Bowman and Daisy Ferguson numbering in the faculty. Richard Plate, Mrs. Henry Engleking, Doris Shell, June Watson and Pauline Draper were the assistants.

The children enjoyed the party given them yesterday afternoon by members of the faculty.

Fliers Pass Fifteenth Day

CHICAGO, June 27.—UP—An endurance flight is something like a dance marathon, only more so.

You fly or you dance until you can't fly or dance any longer and then you fly or dance some more.

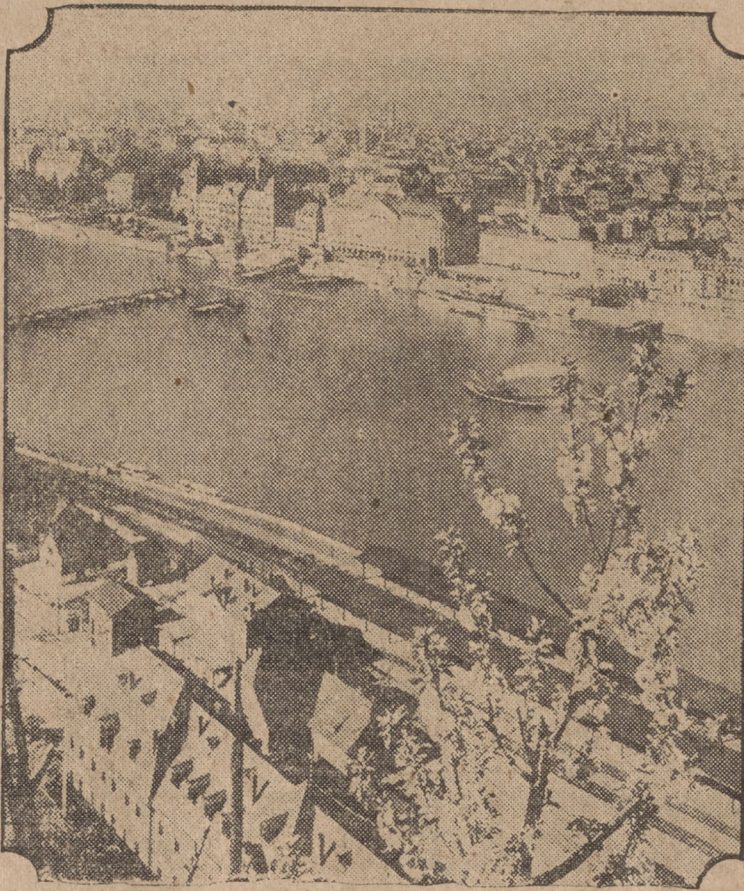

"Just exactly like a dance marathon," said Walter Hunter, eldest of four brothers who had succeeded tonight in keeping an airplane flying around the Sky Harbor airport in circles for 15 days. "Only maybe it's not quite so silly."

"You see we stand to make close to $200,000 if we break the record. No marathon dancer ever did that." The record goes smash early Sunday morning when the Hunter family's ship will have been in the air 421 hours, unless the plane or one of the brothers goes smash first.

The Stinson-Detroit cabin monoplane "City of Chicago" is full of rattles, the motor full of knocks, the gasoline lines full of kinks and the Hunter brothers, all four of them, full of aches and pains and a mad desire for sleep, but the flight goes on.

PALO ALTO MAN WILL HEAD ROTARY

CHICAGO, June 27.—UP—The United States should compel world peace by promulgating to the world at large a Monroe doctrine warning against war, Admiral Mark Kerr of London said today at the closing session of Rotary International's silver jubilee convention.

Soon after the admiral concluded his address on "The Interdependence of Nations," the convention was ended with election announcements. The balloting occurred Thursday.

Almon E. Roth, of Palo Alto, Cal., was presented to the delegates as new president of the organization. He defeated Raymond J. Knoepfel, New York corporation lawyer, by a vote of 2316 to 1119, and his election was made unanimous on Knoepfel's motion. Roth is business manager of Stanford university and has been a Rotarian since 1922.

The five Americans chosen as members of the board of directors were: Clinton P. Anderson, of Albuquerque, N. M.; Clabrook Cottingham, of Pineville, La.; Richard C. Hedke, of Detroit; Howard W. Selby, of West Palm Beach, Fla.; and Will Taylor of Springfield, Ill.

Rotarians were urged by Admiral Kerr to "spread the message that no good and only harm comes from the manufacture of munitions and from fighting."

After asserting that the League of Nations, in its 10 years of existence, had been the means to preventing three wars, he challenged America to accept leadership in maintaining international peace.

EAGLES TO HOLD CONCLAVE IN S.F. SOON

SAN FRANCISCO, June 27.—"Abolish the Poor-House in America" will be the slogan of the business and legislative sessions of the 32nd annual international grand aeriel convention of the Fraternal Order of Eagles, to be held in this city, August 11 to 16; with 50,000 visitors expected here from all parts of the United States and Canada for the conclave.

Foremost among the many progressive activities and programs of the Eagles' organization, the proposal for the establishment of old-age pensions for dependent aged people in every state in the Union will be given careful analysis by standing and special committees of experts, who have been directing the intensive campaign waged by the order for several years, to secure the enactment of old-age pension measures in all of the states of the nation. Thus far, eleven states have passed such laws—Colorado, Kentucky, California, Nevada, Maryland, Minnesota, Montana, Utah, Wisconsin, Wyoming and New York and the official pens with which the governors of each state signed the measures will be on exhibition at the coming grand aeriel in San Francisco's civic auditorium.

The plan of action to be carried on and developed to obtain nationwide fulfillment of old-age pension laws, as a sacred trust and duty of the Fraternal Order of Eagles, until every state in the Union has put such laws into effect, will be presented at the convention by past Grand President Frank E. Hering of South Bend, Indiana, national editor of the Eagles' Magazine, and national chairman of the old-age pension commission of the order. Hering has been officially recognized "Father" of Mothers' Day, instituted by Indianapolis Aerie of Eagles in 1904, and now a universal annual observance. He will be the principal speaker at the brilliant civic exercises opening the grand aeriel, Monday evening, August 11, in the civic auditorium.

The widespread activities of the national and subordinate aeries of the Eagles in sponsoring welfare and social service projects, endowing educational and health foundations, fostering patriotic and humanitarian measures, and providing relief and employment aids, will also be reported to the 32nd grand aeriel; by past grand president and managing organizer Conrad H. Mann of Kansas City, Mo. Grand President Charles J. Chenu of Sacramento, Calif., who will preside at the conclave, Grand Vice-President Robert E. Proctor of Elkhart, Ind., who is slated to become grand president, Grand Secretary John S. Parry of Kansas City, Grand Treasurer Joseph H. Dowling of Dayton, Ohio, and other noted national leaders of the society. The order has 700,000 members in the United States and Canada; and 150,000 ladies in its auxiliaries.

Cash prizes will be awarded uniformed bands, marching clubs, drum and bugle corps, drill and degree teams and other groups taking leading places in the colorful grand aeriel parade here Thursday, August 14. Each of the 1800 subordinate aeries of the order will be represented in the coming grand aeriel sessions, also in the parade and other events of the conclave.
